"Dead Beat" Rounded Up

An individual traveling under the name of A. Houston, who started in at a photography business in Blairmore about twelve days ago, was landed in the police barracks at Macleod on Wednesday night, following a pretty clever career. Prior to coming to this great metropolis he sojourned through certain districts in British Columbia, and escaped the chase of the police authorities and citizens who were after the scalp of a "deadbeat." Despite their efforts they failed to shorten his career and he afterwards landed in Blairmore, where any strange individual finds the easiest marks as victims the country can produce. Here he engaged rooms at the Cosmopolitan hotel and started in to do a rushing business as a photographer. His business was not all confined to photography, for the fact soon became known that borrowing money and beating board bills were a part of his important sidelines. About a week ago a lady registered at the Cos. as Mrs. Houston, of Calgary, and she has since been rendering the professional crook valuable assistance, getting an insight into the business, etc., etc.

On Wednesday evening the couple moved to Bellevue, following several different stories of their proposed programme. The proprietor of the Cosmopolitan hotel "smelt the rat," and at once got the mounted police of Bellevue on the trail. The couple bought tickets for Granum and occupied a sleeper to Macleod, where they were taken into custody immediately on the arrival of the train at that point, and were brought to Blairmore this morning to stand trial on several charges, including a breach of the Dead Beat Act. We since learn that several local individuals were victimized by Houston. One man lent him a $20 bill on the promise of security that never materialized. A Chinaman, cook at one of our hotels, helped the "poor" individual out with a ten-spot. The Blairmore Livery Stable is seeking settlement of a small livery bill, and others of minor importance go to prove that Mr. Houston really meant business. After being treated by the Alberta authorities, it is likely that Houston will be transferred to the B.C. authorities for their careful consideration.

This forenoon he appeared before Judge McGowan and pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of having tried to beat his board. He was, however, found guilty, and was nominally fined with costs. We understand that he has made a settlement for his board, but as yet the poor "lenders" are looking worried.

Houston is known by several alias's, including Ray Berger (his supposed-to-be real German name), and J. T. Haussler. He is German by birth, and has been endeavoring by changing his name to become English.

After a season's strenuous digging in the Red Deer River Canyon of Alberta, eight perfect skeletons of extinct carnivorous and herbivorous animals have been discovered. It has hitherto been almost impossible to obtain more than parts of the skeleton of any species. Much of the material is new to science. The fossils were found in the Belly River, and the full report on them by scientific experts is being awaited with interest.

Meeting of Town Council

The regular meeting of the Blairmore town council was held last night, Mayor Kribs and Councillors Rosse, Beebe, Sinclair, Dutil and Bartlett being present.

The minutes of previous meetings were read and approved, and the following accounts were passed: R. Smallwood $1.85, Alberta Telephones '25c, W. A. Beebe $20, Blairmore hotel $9.00, F. E. Upton $43.50, W. H. Allie $2.50, Kribs and Co. $4.50, E. Moreno $2.50.

A communication from the superintendent of dependent and delinquent children, regarding the curfew by-law, was read and ordered filed.

The secretary informed the council that he had written the school board under dates of March 12th and April 10th, asking that they submit to the council estimates for the year, and that up to the present he had received no written reply and as far as he was aware the board were taking no steps in the matter. The secretary was instructed to write them again urging upon the board the necessity of having such information in hand before striking a rate of tax levy for the present year.

The secretary was also advised not to allow the use of the council chamber for the holding of any meetings other than council and school board meetings without the consent of the council.

Councillor Dutil gave notice that at the next regular meeting of the council he would introduce a by-law to appoint a returning officer and to name date and place for the polling for election of a councillor to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Councillor Legge.

He's a Fine Rooster

Rockwood, Ontario,
August 1913.

Dear Friend:
Received your card regarding the Buff Orpington rooster. Well, every person that has seen him admired him and said he is a beautiful bird, both comb and plumage. He is a pure through-bred—not frostbitten comb or feet—and with a stately carriage and a loud crowed he comes from a fine-class poultry raiser from the state of Illinois. He has had bright eyes. I notice in the Toronto fall show lists of people that had poultry at the show they took the first prize if not the same poultry raiser as mine my rooster is all right every way. I most think that his parents came from England, and regarding the price I suppose you have bought birds before so you can give me the same. You make me an offer and how will I fix him up for traveling as he will soon be on board if that is right. You make me an offer for without boast he is a fine bird.

Hoping to have a reply shortly and obliged Yours respectfully, MARY.

(The above is handed us, declared to be authentic and original—very original.
The lady evidently has a regard for the rooster.)

Blairmore, Alta., Fri., April 23, 1915

Canadian Red Cross

Toronto, April 22.—One of the most interesting accounts of the work that is being done for the wounded men is that of those from France in a letter from Mrs.
Clancy Depew to her sister. Since the outbreak of hostilities Mr. and Mrs.
Depew have generously converted their chateau, fourteen miles north of Compiègne, on the main railway from Brussels to Paris, into a hospital, which is only three miles from the firing line and is in such close proximity to the German trenches that the strains of "Watch on Rhine" can be clearly heard in the chateau.

Mrs. Depew gives the following graphic description of the work that is being done in her chateau:—"We are getting better organized every day and the hospital and the ambulance service is really very good now. The latter, they say, is the best at the front. We are now in direct telephone communication with the British Red Cross and ambulances are sent to us as soon as they arrive at the post de secours before the troops are brought out of the trenches.
They send us only the very worst cases and lately they have seemed more horrible as the Germans are using bombs filled with nails and bits of old iron.
Last Thursday we heard there were ten wounded and two died before they could be put into the ambulances and four almost immediately after they arrived here. They were fairly torn and mangled. A too sweeping law would prevent us from doing our duty as we are whole earnestly want to see the fighting stopped. A too sweeping law might even create a strong feeling the other way. The general admission that liquor is a menace in time of national trial is a great gain for the enemies of the liquor interests; but should not lead them to forget in England or in any other country, that in the long run a law can go only as far as the feelings of the people will take it, and that the fight against drinking is not a matter of legislation, but of uniting and giving expression to individual beliefs."

"We are so grateful to all the kind friends who have helped us and, thanks to them, we have been able to buy one ambulance wonderfully fitted up. The others belong to the British Red Cross or to private persons who have joined our staff. We have also been able to buy radiographs which are much more convenient and easier of the instruments and stores for the operating room. Beyond that, I have been able to distribute blankets, flannel night shirts and bed clothes to the poor little field hospitals all along the front, which for the most part are so wretched I would not believe their condition had I not seen it."

"These hospitals have now been closed down by the French government and only the hospitals under the authority of the Army Medical Corps or Red Cross Society are permitted to be used.)
"The other day I was in a room, it was heated, that was the only good quality I saw that existed—mattresses made of straw covered with sacking and placed on three boards and a bolster, made like the mattress. On these sacks of straw covered with a blanket were men sick with pneumonia, typhoid, bronchitis, etc., and they could not be unfastened from the straw. One of their unconscious was taking off their boots.
He had nothing but a wagon with spring in it to take them to the nearest hospital, miles away, and also they were very far from the railway. The doctor in charge asked if I could get them a thermometer. Thanks to friends, we have been able to better these conditions in several similar places."

"Mrs. Depew continues, 'The administration confines its efforts to the large hospitals so you must know that we are absolutely at the front, so much so that last week the British Red Cross, who have sent us several nurses, thought they would have to take them away as we are so near the firing line. It was only on my signing a paper saying I would discharge them that the danger arose in signing a paper saying they would take all responsibility of danger upon themselves, that they were allowed to stay. If we found we should be in the firing line we would have to leave but that does not seem probable at present.'

"I personally have seen to the distribution of blankets, sweaters, mufflers, shirts and waistcoats. I gave them only where the officer in charge says they are really needed. The other day I gave eleven dozen socks knitted in Nova Scotia to the Moroccans, who, poor things, suffer most horribly with cold.
They, and in fact, all said, 'How kind of people in so far away countries to think of us.'

"Mrs. Depew says that she was able to dispose of any claim that the Hudson's Bay Company is not subject to all the laws of the realm. The further fact that the company has to take out a lease at the present time for each and every store or trading post which is permitted to sell liquor, just as many as
should alone settle the contention.—High River Times.

The foregoing facts most completely dispose of any claim that the Hudson's

that the company has to take out a
lease at the present time for each and
every store or trading post which is permitted to sell liquor, just as many as
should alone settle the contention.—High River Times.

FOUNDED A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

"I suffered with rheumatism for two years and could not get my right hand to my mouth for that length of time," writes Lee L. Chapman, Mapleton, Iowa. "I suffered terrible pains so I could not sleep or lie still at night. Five years ago I began using Chamberlain's Liniment and in two months I was well and have not suffered with rheumatism since.
For sale by all dealers."

ing in cold stations for a train to carry them you can see the difference. I can tell you some very interesting things but my lips are sealed. It is a hard life but a most thrilling and interesting one. Our surgeons may well be proud of their record—no tetanus among the men. Some of them are amputated and who thought could not live is now convalescent and has gone to Paris. Best of all, not one case that has gone from this hospital but what has done well and 22 men back at the front.

"We have had terribly cold weather lately and the suffering has been great.
A comparative calm has existed for a few days but they say it is the calm before the storm. (This letter was written before the storm that followed after the battle at La Bassée and Soissons.) I must tell you that General Castelnau, in whose army corps we are, after a thorough inspection gave us a high recommendation to the British Red Cross, and we are very content. Do you realize however, that no one from here can leave for Paris and return without a military permit? One feels a real prisoner, but they are quite right."

This is the letter from a lady who, sitting a short distance from the firing lines, is seeing the real and true realities of war. It cannot fail to deeply impress all who read it and will perhaps be the means of inspiring many in this country to do their share on behalf of the brave men who are doing their duty and suffering so greatly. We cannot begin to realize the horrors of this terrible war until we are near the line of fighting and see day and night the constant stream of wounded and unarmed men, many of them in the prime of life, being brought in from the trenches after a hard fought fight.

I am writing this to keep alive our homes and liberty and our very national existence. It will not be enough to thank them and cheer them when they return but the time to assist is NOW when they are bearing the privations and misery of this dreadful conflict without a grin and always with a smile. They are doing much for us; they are giving all they have, their very lives, that we may rest secure and emerge from this world war greater than ever. What are we doing for them? Can we do too much?

This country has risen splendidly to the occasion and in every part of the land our men and women are making great sacrifices. The soldiers are in high position and with great responsibilities, are devoting their time to the work of the Red Cross and patriotic associations as well as giving of their wealth which the work may be carried on with greater success. Canadian troops take their places in the battle line. He that gives now, gives twice.

As a rule enemies are the people who do not understand us. Sometimes they are people that we move, and this will hurt them.
Other times we prod their crooked ways, fool ideas and make them sit up and take notice. We have made more enemies by telling the truth than in any other way, for the truth always hurts worse than a lie.

A tennis club was organized here on Monday evening, which will run separate from the gymnasium. Rev. W. T. Young was elected president, and Mr. Sherrington secretary.

Someone was good enough to break open the gymnasium locker and steal the basket ball, and pump. This ball will be easily recognized, as it is different from a football, and the guilty person will be dealt with severely if found.

Had Quadruplets

The California legislature has voted $5,000 to Mrs. C. O. McKnight of Sacramento, for her magnificent contribution to the State census. She is the mother of 18 children, the last four of whom were born four days ago. The quadruplets, two boys and two girls, are well, as is their mother. She is proud of her double twins, but equally so of being a grandmother, though only 37 years old.

LOOK TO YOUR PLUMBING

You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get quick relief. For sale by all dealers.

Frank Happenings

Mrs. Smit, of Burns, was visiting in town this week.

A. J. Carter was in town the early part of this week on business.

Francis Aspinall, assistant chief inspector of mines, was in town on Monday.

Fred Parker, Sam Paton and T.

Marsh spent the week end here, after their game with Coleman.

Miss Ida Hagland left the early part of the week for Calgary, where she will spend a few days.

John T. Sterling, chief inspector of mines, came to town from Edmonton on Wednesday.

T. Bradley and Captain Kettles of Hillcrest, were down here on Tuesday evening.

Eugene Schnurr and R. W. Thompson autued to "Fernie" on Sunday and returned by the evening train.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, of Toronto, arrived Tuesday morning on a visit to Mrs. Gordon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Niven.

Ernest Blaize, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Blaize, has succeeded in joining the gun section at Pincher Creek.

Mr. George Montalbetti left on Tuesday morning for San Francisco, via Spokane, where she will spend several months with her sister.

We don't know whether we of this little burg are ahead of our times, or whether we are falling back to the ways of the uncivilized in regard to our medium of exchange. We are told that among some African tribes the medium of exchange is ivory. Among others it is shells, and so on. Money has gone into disuse here altogether—at least we never see any of it. We heard of a case the other day where a local man accepted horses on a bill, then turned around and paid a bill with same. For our part we prefer the current coin of the realm.

The horse shoes are too clumsy and too darned heavy to pack around.

Quite a welcome surprise was sprung on Mr. and Mrs. A. Wardman at their ranch, Rock Creek, Burns, on April the 6th, when their eldest son, Taylor Wardman, paid them a visit after an absence of six years. It can be better imagined, as it is different from a football, and the guilty person will be dealt with severely if found.

Antelope Park

In connection with the antelope park to be established at Chin Coulee, as announced some time ago, Hon. W. J. Roche, Minister of the interior, gives information that an area of five sections is to be fenced and is now occupied by about 50 antelope. An officer of the department is leaving at once to make the necessary arrangements in connection with the construction of the fence, and it is confidently expected that the efforts to enclose the antelope now located on these sections will be successful.

STRAIGHT AT FR

There is no use of our "beating around the bush." We might as well put it at first as last. We want you to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the next time you have a cough or cold. There is no reason why you should not. This preparation by its remarkable cures has gained a world wide reputation, and people every where speak of it in the highest terms of praise. It is for sale by all dealers.

Passburg Happenings

One of our young ladies is anxiously looking forward to the day that falls between Saturday and Monday, when she is to receive a visit from her engineering instructor.

The Rev. Mr. Galbraith has been very active visiting since he arrived. He apparently makes no distinction between the classes and the masses (the saints and the sinners). Although it is less than two weeks since he came among us, he has visited homes which some of his saintly predecessors feared to enter.

Miss J. Beddoe, who has had charge of the juvenile department in the school here since the beginning of the year, was forced to leave on Friday last, because she could not get her salary. During the few months Miss Beddoe was here she proved herself an efficient teacher, and her genial disposition gained for her many friends, who much regret to see her leave under such circumstances.

Cowley Happenings

How do you like the war stamps? Where are the baseball boys these fine days?

T. Shepherd is breaking a horse for Rev. Mr. Chalmers.

Mrs. McEwan spent several days the guest of Mrs. Bennett last week.

Mr. Tustain, senior, is getting material on the ground for the erection of a new house.

Mrs. James Miller, of Creston, was a visitor last week with her sister, Mrs. James Bennett.

Several of the soldier boys from Pincher Creek took in the dance on Friday night. Instead of being the guests of honor, they were invited to serve the supper, which they did in fine style.

About three thousand head of sheep passed west through Cowley one day last week, all bound to the Oddfellows' anniversary banquet at Blairstown. They are a hungry bunch up there, alright!

J. Carnay found the mare he had been looking for so long. It was being used as a plough horse by one who was short of horses. Needless to say, that ploughman has left the country. He left it rather quick when Jim went to claim the horse. It doesn't always pay to pick up "strays" in this country, even if there are hills to hide in.

The farmers' ball on Friday last was a decided success. The hall was crowded, the night was fine, and everyone was in fine spirits; but then, farmers always do have the biggest turnout. Why, yeal the farmers are beginning to be recognized as something more than "hay-seeds." Why? Because people are getting more enlightened and they see that if it wasn't for the farmer everyone else would suffer, even the editors.

The Lord Will Give Peace in Due Season

From the hearts and homes of many;

From the countless thousands slain;

There comes a cry of anguish,

Of sore distress and pain.

For many a wounded soldier

On the battlefield lies cold,

More blood is shed around

Than ever we are told.

From many a sunless hollow;

Ascends the wail of mortals,

Who languish in despair.

The war has wreaked the husband;

The fathers are slain

On the battle-field.

Not any soul remains.

Where mothers weep and break;

Where children cry for bread,

Where Home's dear charnshave perished.

And Hope's sweet voices die,

With the sons of men.

From hearts once bright and gay

We hear the cry of anguish.

Around us every day.

And shall the broken-hearted

To us appeal in vain?

Shall we do much to help them

When we are taught to grieve?

We who are taught to grieve</p

An invitation is extended to the public to attend the services. After the services luncheon will be served to the Oddfellows and Rebekahs and their friends.

This is like saying that a man with a jack-knife in his pocket is carrying concealed weapons and may properly be liable to a charge of assault with intent that was advanced, while German cruisers slaughtered men, women and children at Hartlepool, Whitby and other unfortunate coast towns in England, the pretense being that because soldiers were in these villages they were "defended." By similar processes of reasoning, there is not a city or hamlet in Germany that is not "defended" by somebody and so subject to unmotivated attack and massacre.

The fortunes of war bring swift and amazing changes. Are the people of Germany prepared, in the event of invasion, to accept for themselves the barbarous doctrine which their military masters are now enforcing whenever they have power and opportunity?—New York World.

Folks on the East Coast of Britain have no need of look-outs to warn them of a battle in the North Sea. Even when they cannot hear the gun-firing, they have auguries of the battle in the pheasants, in which the country throughout abounds. Hours before the people of London were aware of it, many East Coast residents knew there had been an engagement on the morning of Sunday, Jan. 24. Almost immediately firing had begun, the pheasants made a great stir and flocks, and those old residents, able to read the signs, realized that the sensitive birds were aware of distant cannonading. Similar demonstrations by the birds had been made on previous occasions.

Extracts from Letter From Walter Howe

(Received by Mrs. Howe this week.)

March 23rd—Glad to tell you I am feeling fine. We are just out of the trenches again. We went in on the night of March 17th. I think most of us are ready for a rest, at least, we have all kinds of fun in the trenches, singing, telling stories and shouting across to the Germans. Some of them speak good English. Once, I spoke especially. We were on a working party, in front of the trenches, and the German working party was also out, when we were surprised to see a German yell "Is there anybody here from Lethbridge?" He also asked us if we had any cigarettes to spare, as they were short, and said they had some beer. We had some very cold days, this trip, two days it was below zero. It is still cold here. One night we showed across a trench and asked if it was the Prussian Guards opposite us, and the answer came back "No, Prussian Guards". We had a good laugh. The British fired at us, only just enough to let them know we were watching them. The "Enterprise" was too bad to stay long. The British made it too hot for them. Finally remember me to all my friends. It is hard to live in a trench. I have a lot of fun, but I am from a route march. I have not seen any of the Letbridge boys in the battery over here, and I met Bryan again today. German aeroplanes passed over here this morning and dropped some leaflets.

April 1st—We are sure getting lots of training these days, first with running and route marches, then trench work. Believe me, it is not good and hard if we continue this all right. It has been a clear, hot day today, and the aeroplanes were certainly busy. It is hard to watch them when they are about. A German aeroplane had just passed over this morning. A shell burst right beside it. It did not fall, but beat it for a safe place. I am not afraid of them. They are not as bad as they look.
